

2007: Two old male yews grow here. The smaller of the pair is close to the churchyard's SW entrance. Girth, including a piece of stump, was 18' at the base.

The larger yew, split and fragmented, consists of three growth areas all linked close to the ground. At the east edge is a single new upright stem. Girth was 23' 9" at the ground.

