

As well as this large living yew, J.Daryll Evans recorded a large stump on the E margin of the churchyard in his Churchyard Yews of Gwent.

2004 and 2013: The male yew grows SE of the church. From its 4' bole rises a large main branch with dead remnants alongside, and a second smaller, more fragmented section. The yew has been previously recorded in the Tree Register's data base with a diameter of 190cm. Girth in 2004 was 23' 9" at the base (over twiggy growth). The photos are from 2013.

A further 7 young yews grow in this churchyard.
