

1999: The male yew with a hollow shell grows SE of the church. Two substantial elder trees compete for nutrients and should perhaps be removed. A large portion of dead sapwood (A) rises to about 14' and when this eventually falls away it will leave a horse shoe shaped tree. Girth was 17' 4".

A second male measuring about 13' 6" at the ground grows SW of the church.

Photos - Geoff Garlick 2008