

Here is a Victorian church on a much older site.

2013: The large fragmenting yew grows west of the south porch. It has four main leaders which are all chained together at an approximate height of 15'.

Girth:

1997: 11m tall and a diameter of 150@0.4m - Owen Johnson The Sussex Tree Book

2013: 15' 11" at 2' - Peter Norton

The B/W photos were sent to the Conservation Foundation as part of their 1987 Yew Tree Campaign in conjunction with Country Living magazine.

The photos below were taken by Peter Norton in 2013

He also recorded a further three yews, a female, girthing 8' 11" on the south perimeter, and two young yews at the northwest corner of the church.
