

1914: A well grown ancient yew, with a girth of 15' 6" was reported in The Wiltshire Archaeological and Natural History magazine

1938: Mee's King's England acknowledged a 'grand old yew' which has stood for centuries 'its trunk 16 feet round'.

The church considers the tree to be at least 600 years old.

2003: The tall female yew grows SSW of the church. All low growth had been removed, resulting in a clean, visible trunk. Girth was 14' 6" at 1', 14' 6" at 3', and 14' 10" at 5'.

photographs taken by Geoff Garlick in 2005

