

2009: A female yew grows south of the church. It is completely hollow with a section of the old trunk sliced off. All growth is now contained on a single leaning branch, whose foliage was thick and vigorous. 4 further large branches had been cut off. Girth was just below 12ft.

© Tim Hills - Ancient Yew Group - 2019