

2015: A previously unrecorded ancient male yew grows NE of the 15th century church, at the edge of a steep drop to the road below. Enough of the original tree remains to see that this is new growth from an old bole. Girth around what remains was at least 20ft.

