

2002: Two ancient yews recorded. A female yew north of the church, most of its growth on thick upright branches. It measured 15' 10" at the ground and 19' 8" at 4'.

A hollow male northeast of the church measuring 14' 5" at 1'. It had epicormic growth covering most of its bole from the ground to 5'. Pieces of the original central trunk were visible.

Photos were taken by Cliff Hansford in 2008